fall of Nanking must be attributed this relief. The continued occupation of Hooshow by a large force of insurgents is an inexplicable circumstance. It is averacd that the Chung Wang has denied all connexion with this force, and really circumstances warrant the conclusion that they are a separate and distinct body from the Tuiping rebels who occupied Nanking - for it. Houchow is in the province of Chekiang (Ningpo) close to the borders of Kiangsu (Shanghae) and is situated amongst hills which are intersected with streams and rivulets. The number of insurgents who occupy it is not known, but the Imperial army, besieging it is very large, ! and includes the French contingent. The nature of the country has hitherto provented the basiegers. from approaching within several miles from the walls, and the peculiarity of the defence consists A DATEM PAPER, issued every morning, Sunday in that it is condirected by means of fierce Borlies, which appear always to be successful. By last accounts one of these sortics had been so dishstions to the besiegers that it seems to have raised the siege. The French contingent suffered severely, especially in officers, and the commander of that force had gone to Shanghai for the purpose of endeavering to obtain more assistance. As the Mandarips can obtain excellent mivice from accomplished European officers, and as the army which besoiged Nunking, as well as the disciplined force under the Futer of Klangsu, will be available, Hoochow, will no doubt be properly skill to extirpate rebellion entirely. > The export trade at all the ports continues in a flourishing state. Shipping is abundant. Rice is somewhat better. The tightness in the money market noticed the last few mails seems to have disappeared, and commercial prospects are on

Affairs at Japan wear a more complicated an pearance. The subject now on the tapis is the at inck on the Prince of Nagato's fortifications the Straits of Shimonosaki, which command the entrance into the Inland Sea. The Japanese government and people appear to entertain a strong repugnance to the British fleet attacking this position—doubless from the impression that it will be held us a material guarantee for the perform. ance of the treaty. On this point becoming the sulient one in the negociations, the Council of the Tycoon (the Gorogie) forsook their posts, and left the British Minister no means of communication with that potentate, who threatens should the attack be insisted on, to retire to Hisko, which means to abdicate in favor of the Mikado.

The British Minister continues to exhibit the utinost patience, forbearance, and conciliation He could not attack the Straits of Shimonosak until he had sufficient land force to protect the foreign settlement of Yokohama, because the pusition is most formidable and the fleet was deemer unequal to both services. But on receiving sufmoned, not to surrender, but to remove the abs tractions to the navigation of the Inland sea. The time named in the summons was allowed to expire, the reply being the strengthening of the for tifications. Just ut this juncture, two of the Prince of Nagato's retainers, possibly relatives had in the first instance end proceeding to Eueminent firm and had been most kindly treated. They were introduced on their return to the Brittached accordingly, as stated in the Supplement of last report, and conveyed them to a point near the Straits of Shimonosak where they landed hope that His Highness might still releat. After they found extensive. If they were not fired into the aggression practised on them amounted to the same thing, us shells were fired across their bows. On the veturn of these vessels to Yokohama, the British Minister still continued to negociate. and at date of last advices there were no symptonis of the early movement of the British floot. His Excellency seemed averse to take a step which appeared so distasteful to the government and the people. Such is the actual state of affairs. As for the future all is surmise. It is guid on one hand that a number of powerful Daimies have joined the Prince of Nagator and that His Highness' intention is to usurp to himself the office of Tycoon. One of the two Daimies appointed to guard Nagasaki has joined Nagato, and the other? whose duty it, is by rotation this year to supply troops, is about to follow the example. This contingency as to Negatois contemplated usurpation seems, hardly probable, for the reason; that the Tycoon's bad foith is too apparent, Ar the time the last number of this Report was and that the situation assumed by Nagato
